A. Hyde Esq,

Secretary &c

Dear Sir:

I have very respectfully to enquire whether the trustees of the Corcoran Art Gallery will permit the exhibition in their building of a large piece of embroidery, (known as the battle of Langside) some 8 by 10 feet in extent. By those who have seen the picture it is pronounced a marvel in needlework.

I have had the honor to leave at the office of the trustees a specimen of needlework (picture of John Bright) executed by the lady who achieved the battle piece. From that you may form an idea of the merits and value of the work.

An early answer to this communication will greatly oblige

Yours respectfully
John A. Motley

Dear Sir

A gentleman calling at my house to day gave me your name and advised me to write to you, I have taken the liberty of doing so and sending one of my circulars. If you have any disposition in regard to donating a fine and rare collection of Natural History to any institution I would feel very grateful if you would become the possessor of it, I would refer you to Dr Sill of the Smithsonian Institution who knows me, could refer you to other gentlemen if necessary. ~~The~~ price of the collection is Twenty five hundred dollars which I consider about half its value.
